SPELLING RULES

■ The only time the ie combination comes after c is when it sounds like sir, as in ancient, deficient, conscience.

The al Rule Here are some examples of words in which ei makes the long a sound:

deign eight feign freight heinous reign sleigh surveillance vein weight

Exceptions Sometimes, you will simply have to memorize words that use the ei combination because they don't follow the rule.

■ In some words. ei is used even though it sounds like re: either, seize, weird, sheik, seizure, leisure ■ Sometimes, ei sounds like long 1: height, sleight stein, seismology ■ Sometimes, ei sounds like short c heifer, their, foreign, forfeit ■ As you learned in the saying on the previous page, after c you use ei, even if it sounds like ete ceiling, deceit, conceited, receive, receipt Spelling Practice 'I Circle the word in the parentheses that is spelled correctly. Check your answers at the end of the lesson.

1. My (niece, mice) was born on Thanksgiving Day.

2. My brother is the kind of person who likes to (sive, seize) every opportunity, no matter how big or small.

3. The vet said that my dog's (weight, vieght) was too much with respect to its (height, hieght).

4. I was (releived, relieved) when 1 realized 1 hadn't missed my flight.

5. The (reign, reign) of a top-ranked tennis player is short-lived.

6. When I was in college, 1 worked as a (casheir, cashier) at the local grocery store.

7. There are (surveillance, surviellance) cameras in the lobby of my building.

8. I decided to go with a wallpaper (frieze, freize) along the upper wall in the family room. 9. I have always wanted to be a (chief, cheif) editor. 10. He is a (feind, fiend) with no conscience.

low More Vowel Combinations

When two vowels are together, the first one is usually long, or says its own name, and the second one is silent. For example, in the word midi, you hear long c, but not the short a. Similarly, if you know how to pronounce the word caffeine, you stand a chance at spelling it correctly because you hear that the e sound comes first. If you know what sound you hear, that sound is likely to be the first of two vowels working together. Here arc some examples of words using iii, lli, and ea combinations in which the vowel you hear is the one that comes first.
